

GENERAL KORNILOFF TELLS OF AWFUL CONDITIONS ANARCHY IN RUSS ARMY HAS BROUGHT ABOUT

Imposition of Death Penalty Alone Can Restore Order, He Declares.

FATE OF RIGA IN BALANCE

Bukovina and Galicia in Enemy's Hands, He Declares, and If Coast of Gulf of Riga Is Not Retained, Way to Capital Will Be Opened.

MOSCOW, Aug. 28.—The second general sitting of the national conference was held this afternoon. General Korniloff, the commander-in-chief, entered the hall in company with Premier Kerensky. His appearance was the signal for a prolonged and enthusiastic ovation. All the delegates cheered for Russia, the revolutionary government and the army. Premier Kerensky introduced General Korniloff, saying the government had thought it necessary to invite the commander-in-chief to lay before the conference the situation at the front and in the army.

General Korniloff said the death penalty, the restoration of which he had asked, together with other measures, constituted only a part of what was necessary in an army stricken with the terrible evils of disorganization and insubordination.

"In the present month," General Korniloff said, "soldiers had killed four regimental commanders and other officers, and caused these outrages only when they were threatened with being shot. Quite recently one of the regiments of Siberian Rifles, which had fought so splendidly at the beginning of the revolution, abandoned its position on the Riga front. Nothing except an order to exterminate the entire regiment availed to cause it to return to its position."

"This was an impudently fighting anarchy in the army," the commander continued. "Undoubtedly it will finally be repressed, but the danger of fresh debacles is weighing constantly on the country."

"The situation on the front is bad. We have lost the whole of Galicia, the whole of Bukovina, and all the fruits of our recent victory. At several points the enemy has crossed our frontier and is threatening our fertile southern provinces. He is endeavoring to destroy the Rumanian army and is knocking at the gates of Riga. If our army does not hold the shore of the Gulf of Riga the road to Petrograd will be open wide."

"The strength of every army depends upon conditions in the district in its rear," General Korniloff continued. "The blood which will inevitably flow during the restoration period may be shed in vain if the army, having been re-organized and prepared for battle, remains without reinforcements and equipment. I, therefore, think it indispensable that the measures taken at the front should also be applied in the rear."

The commander then went on to say that according to information at his disposal, the conditions of the railways was such that by November, the army would not receive any more supplies. In support of his statement he quoted a telegram from the commander-in-chief of the Southwestern front, saying the shortage of bread and biscuits on this front amounted almost to famine.

He then read figures relating to the production of war materials, which he said had decreased, compared with the period from October, 1916, to January, 1917, by 60 per cent for guns and shells, and 80 per cent for airplanes.

"If this state of affairs continues," he added, "the Russian armies will find themselves in the same state as in the Spring of 1916, at the time of the retreat in Poland, Galicia and the Carpathians."

Soubiran of South Boston, from probable death when Soubiran was suddenly attacked by four German machines of the albatross type while he was flying at a low altitude. The German machines were over Soubiran attempting to down him, when Lafferty, seeing his companion's plight, darted at the enemy aviators, scattering them and allowing Soubiran to escape.

Lieutenant Lafferty was warmly praised by the officers and men of the command for his bravery in attacking single handed four enemy machines.

French and British governments have been asked to detail officers, and probably eight or 10 will be assigned to each of the 32 camps.

AUSTRIA MAY DECLARE WAR ON U. S. BECAUSE WE HELP ITALY

WASHINGTON, Aug. 28.—The possibility that Austria and perhaps other allies of Germany may soon declare war against the United States, because of the financial aid given to Italy is recognized by administration officials. It was carefully explained that there is nothing in the existing situation, either diplomatic or military that would cause the United States to take the initiative, but that an anomalous state of affairs may result in broadening the war does exist, was not denied.

RELATIONS OF THE UNITED STATES WITH GERMANY'S ALLIES ARE DEFINED AS STILL A STATE OF BROKEN DIPLOMATIC RELATIONS.

Relations of the United States with Germany's allies are defined as still a state of broken diplomatic relations.

SCOTSDALE AND EVERSON HONOR BOYS OF TENTH

Crowd Estimated at From 8,000 to 10,000 Turns Out For Soldiers' Farewell

BAND PLAYS FINE CONCERT

Musicians Score Decided Hit With a Program of Spirited Music and Novelties; Sing "I Don't Know Where I'm Going But I'm On My Way"

Special to The Courier.

SCOTSDALE, Aug. 28.—A crowd estimated between 8,000 and 10,000 people greeted the Tenth Regiment band and Company E, Tenth Regiment, and the Supply company in Scottdale and Everson last night. It was a fine tribute to the soldiers. As they marched from Everson to Loucks park to the inspiring march music of the band, the streets were lined with cheering throngs most of whom followed the procession to the park.

At the park Captain Zundel of Company E put his men through a well-executed drill while the band got ready for the concert. A spot-light illuminated the field as the boys marched to and fro in various formations.

Just as it did in Connellsville last Wednesday night, the Tenth band scored a big hit. Spirited music of standard and popular character, with lots of singing and other novelties was included in the program, and Director Donald Kimmel was very generous with his encores.

Russ Rolins, a member of the band who hails from Scottdale, sang a number of popular airs, the biggest hit of which was the patriotic chorus of "Oh, Johnny, Oh!" The band sang a paraphrase on "I Don't Know Where I'm Going But I'm On My Way," which went like this:

I don't know where I'm going but I'm on my way.
For I belong to the Fighting Tenth.
I'm proud to say
I try to do my duty every night and day.
I don't know where I'm going but I'm on my way.

GERMAN PAPER HINTS AT ANOTHER CHANGE IN CHANCELLORSHIP

Dr. Michaelis Not Getting Results Desired, George Barnhard Declares.

COPENHAGEN, Aug. 28.—The possibility of another change in imperial chancellors in Germany is discussed by George Barnhard in the Vossische Zeitung.

He says that it is plainly evident already that the appointment of a minor official like Dr. Michaelis without general political experience was a great mistake and that the results desired are not apt to be reached quickly under the leadership of the new administration. Parliament, he argues, must take the matter of internal reforms and peace into its own hands. Herr Barnhard still holds the error of his ways and avoid the necessity of another change in the chancellors.

GERMAN STATESMEN TO CONFER ON PEACE NOTE

COPENHAGEN, Aug. 28.—Pope Benedict's peace note will be the principal subject of discussion at the meeting in Berlin this afternoon in which Chancellor Michaelis, members of the German parliament and representatives of Prussia, Bavaria, Saxony and Wurtemberg, will participate.

Reports from the German capital add that Dr. Michaelis will leave for Belgium immediately after the meeting, when he will have a conference with the Governor General Baron von Falkenhayn.

NO LETTER TAX

Senate Strikes Out Provision For One Cent Levy on Mail Matter.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 28.—In resuming consideration today of the postage sections of the war tax bill, the Senate, by a vote of 39 to 29, struck out the provisions levying a one cent tax on letters and postcards, designed to raise $50,000,000. A provision giving American soldiers and sailors abroad the privilege of mailing letters free was retained.

Weight amendments to the war tax bill providing for levies on war profits ranging from 75 down to 48 per cent were introduced by Senator La Follette.

The entire section levying taxes on first class mail was eliminated on motion of Senator Hardwick of Georgia. The Senate then proceeded to the periodical tax provision.

Senator Smoot announced that he would seek later to reconsider elimination of the letter tax section.

Sleeps in Flower Bed.

William Bundy of Johnstown, picked out a poor place to sleep off his drunk last night when he chose a flower bed on the city hall lawn. The police didn't let him stay there long. Bundy will sleep two nights in the lockup now, working three days on the streets during the same period.

GENERAL HOLIDAY PROPOSED WHEN DRAFTED MEN DEPART

Big Demonstration Is Planned in Honor of Boys Leaving For Training Camps.

COMMITTEES MAKE PLANS

Fayette county will appropriately celebrate the departure of the first drafted men who leave shortly to help make up the new national army. Plans have been outlined by the Fayette division of the committee on Public Safety for a demonstration in each of the registration districts on the day the first draft of the drafted men depart. Chairman J. J. Barnhart of the committee on military service has taken charge of the celebrations and has already appointed a committee heads in Uniontown, Brownsville, Masontown, Point Marion, and Republic, the points at which five of the county's seven draft headquarters are located. Colonel Barnhart will meet with the Connellsville committee members on Wednesday evening to arrange for the demonstration in honor of the men from Districts 2, 5 and 8. The committee heads are as follows:

District 1, R. F. Hopwood, L. H. Frasier, and R. J. Patterson, Uniontown; District 3, Henry B. Reilly, Brownsville; District 4, E. E. Beardsley, Point Marion and Dr. G. W. Neff, Masontown; District 6, Dr. L. F. Arensburg, and J. D. VonKirk, Republic; District 7, O. H. Huesteler, McClellandtown.

A general holiday in these communities on the day the citizen-soldiers depart is being urged. There will undoubtedly be parades in all the towns, with plenty of martial music. Other details are to be worked out. Each district is free to determine the nature of its celebration.

The committee took up the subject of the celebration for the drafted men, feeling that a celebration for Company D and the Hospital Corps would have to be largely spontaneous because of the uncertainty of their departure. The committee has no doubt that Connellsville will give the National Guard boys a royal send-off, and is centering its efforts on honoring the members of the national army.

CAMP LEE, WHERE COUNTY MEN WILL TRAIN, READY

It was announced last night at Petersburg, Va., that the infantry cantonments at Camp Lee, where the drafted men from several Western Pennsylvania counties, including Fayette, will train, had been completed. They will accommodate 32,000 men. Over 1,500 officers, chiefly from the Fort Myer training school, reported for duty at the camp yesterday.

Five per cent of Fayette county's first increment will leave for Camp Lee, September 5. About 85 will go from the county at the first call. Forty per cent will leave September 10, another 40 per cent on October 3, and the following 15 per cent as soon thereafter as practicable.

FRICK COMPANY TO ASK EXEMPTION FOR MEN

The H. C. Frick Coke company will make claims for exemption for miners, coke drawers and mechanics at its plants. It is reported, but not for common laborers and clerks. Similar action will likely be taken by other coke and coal operators.

DONATES MUSIC.

Library to Circulate Copies the Same as Books.

The club has decided to give all music purchased, after it has been used, to the library.

MONEY POURS IN FOR TOBACCO FUND; SEND IN YOURS TODAY!

A generous response to the appeal for contributions to "Our Boys in Franco Tobacco Fund" has followed announcement of the plan in The Courier Saturday and Monday.

The pleasing feature about the response is the fact that instead of sending in quarters, many of the contributors are giving dollars.

Contributions may be sent to The Corner or to the national headquarters

ENGINEERS MOVING TOWARD FRONT, NOTE ON CARD INDICATES

Earliest Van Sant Says Regiment Is Moving About "Fast and Frequently."

The Fifth Engineers are in France, and are moving "fast and frequently," undoubtedly toward real service at the front, according to a post card received here from Ernest M. Van Sant, local boy who is private in the Pittsburgh regiment. The card is written to Ralph Sliger of East Murphy avenue, and is dated August 1. It reads:

"Have been 'somewhere in France' for quite a while now. Have had no chance to write before. Am alive and doing fine—so far. Do not attempt to send me any packages, such as 'cans,' or anything of the kind. Am moving too fast and frequently for that. Just letters and papers." The word "papers" is much underscored.

The message is written on a regular French government postal card, and is postmarked Soudun, Indre, wherever that is.

EARL, RUSSELL SENDS POSTCARD FROM FRANCE

A postcard received at The Courier office from Earl K. Russell, a member of the Fifth Engineers, reports the safe arrival of the regiment on "this side" of the English channel. "We had a very pleasant trip," the writer says. "I find everything very interesting over here. The people give us open house everywhere."

The card, which had passed the censor, bears the postmark of a town "somewhere in France." It was mailed under the "Soldiers' Mail" frank, but the New York city post office, through which it passed, stamped it "Due 1 Cent." The card carries a picture of St. Paul's cathedral, London, evidently having been prepared in that city before the engineers started on their journey across the channel.

STILL NO ORDERS FOR COMPANY D TO MOVE

Company D has no orders to move. Though yesterday was the day on which it was expected the Tenth would leave, none of the companies started for the south. Camp Hancock, Augusta, Ga., is declared to be quite ready for the troops, and the delay in leaving is unaccounted for. No preparations are being made for departure, and the time when the company will leave is more uncertain than ever.

Company D spent the moving drilling at Fayette Field. No new recruits have been received into the company.

Checks for several of the boys who are now in Company D and were formerly employees of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad and the H. C. Frick Coke company were received yesterday. These concerns are paying their employees who enlist part of their salaries, the amount varying under different conditions. Several of the checks were large ones, and the boys were pleased.

FOURTH SAFE IN FRANCE, SISTER HEARS

Mrs. Blanche Cunningham of South street has received word of the safe arrival in France of her brother, Charles F. Forsythe, with the First Engineers. The regiment was stationed at Washington, D. C., prior to its departure for the front early this month.

NEW PRINCIPAL

A. J. Enos of Davisville succeeds R. L. Mankey as Normal School Head.

Following the resignation of R. L. Mankey of Greene county as principal of the Dawson schools, because of his acceptance into the second Reserve Officers' Training camp at Fort Oglethorpe, Georgia, A. J. Enos of Normalville was last night elected principal, and no further trouble is expected, since Mr. Enos is above draft age.

The opening of school has been postponed from September 3 to September 17.

INDICATIONS ARE DRAFTED MEN WILL FILE FEW APPEALS

Local Board, Through Which Such Action Must Be Taken, Forward Small Number.

NO. 5 QUOTA IS COMPLETE

Board Refuses One Claim for Exemption and Number of Men Qualifying Is Thus Brought Up to 100; Slacker List in District No. 2

The local exemption board for District No. 5 has completed its work. Two exemption claims which were held over now been decided upon, and the quota of 100 has been filled. The exemption claims were:

John A. Butler, Confluence; refused. Herbert L. Shipley, Confluence; granted.

The local board for District No. 2 will likely complete its work today, and certified lists will be posted tomorrow for the full period of examinations. Both boards are mailing out the notices to those who will have to go and those who have been exempted.

Indications are that there will be few appeals taken from the decisions of the two local boards. In District No. 2, the only appeals which have been taken are those in which a man failed to file his affidavit until after the specified time and so was drafted into the army. In District No. 5, about half a dozen appeals have been taken from the board's decisions.

The next step for the draft boards will be the mobilization of the first increment of troops on September 5. No special preparations for this work are being made by either board, but both have now received their blanks, including transportation orders and meat tickets.

Twenty-eight men called during the first seven days of examinations in District No. 2 who did not appear when summoned have been drafted into the army. Provided they can be found, they will be taken in and counted in the district's quota. If, however, these men do not report to training camp, their places must be filled by others from the district. It is a question whether any of the 28 men who have been listed as failing to appear would be examined now if they should appear. It would be up to Dr. J. F. Kerr, medical member of the board, to decide whether he would give them the tests or not. The 28 names will be added to when the certified lists for the remaining examination days are made public.

Lon Grindstaff of Johnson City, Tennessee, who is at present located in Dunbar, was examined this morning by Dr. J. M. Hazlett, medical member of Board No. 5. Grindstaff's papers were transferred here by his home board. He will claim exemption because of having a dependent wife and child.

Following are the names of the 28 men who, summoned on one of the first seven days of examination, did not appear for the tests, and will be drafted into the army:

Ben Wilson, Connellsville.
Hugh Robert King, Connellsville.

DISCOVERY WINS PARDON

Convict Finds New Way of Extracting Oil from Shale.

CARSON CITY, Nevada, Aug. 28.—The discovery of a new process of extracting oil from shale has won a pardon for A. H. Crane who was serving a term in the state prison for burglary. Crane devoted all his spare time to chemistry and recently announced that he had found a process by which oil could be extracted from shale at small cost.

A government expert investigated it and Crane was granted a pardon by the parole board yesterday in order that he may perfect his process and superintend the construction of an extraction plant.

The experts announced that Crane's process of extracting oil from shale will be of almost incalculable value to the government.

QUITS JOB; KILLED

Section Laborer Run Down by Train in O. & O. Yards.

Soon after quitting his job as a laborer for the Baltimore & Ohio railroad, Oscar Soras, a foreigner, was run down by a train this morning near the stockyards and instantly killed. The supposition is that Soras was asleep on the track. Nearby was a suitcase which contained a new suit of clothes and some trinkets. The body was removed to Funeral Director J. E. Sims' parlors and prepared for burial.

Soras had been employed on the section gang, under Section Foreman W. S. Bradley for the past three months and little is known about him. He is about 30 years old.

CURE FOR HAY FEVER

Put On Overcoat and Spend Day in Refrigerating Plant.

Hay fever victims surely will rejoice and the more exuberant of the sufferers may be expected to sing psalms of praise to express their joy at an announcement made yesterday that at last a reasonable remedy for this troublesome malady has been found. The season for this form of malignant misery opened, they say, about a week ago.

To end your sniffles and sorrows, say the discoverers, all you need to do is to put on your overcoat and spend half an hour each day in a refrigerating plant, such as are found in hotels, meat storage houses and other establishments.

That hay fever disappears when the first frost comes has long been well known. "Why should not we try artificial frost and get the same results?" queried a Pittsburg sufferer. The experiment, so it is related, was a complete success. The effects of the half-hour treatment, however, say the discoverers, will not last longer than 24 hours. Hence they advise daily treatments.

SOCIAL and PERSONAL

A wedding of interest was that of Miss Sarah Lloyd Gallagher, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. George W. Gallagher, of the West Side and William F. Brooks, city editor of The Daily News, solemnized this morning at 8:30 o'clock in the home of the bride in North Sixth street. Thirty-two guests, including only the members of the two families, attended. Rev. J. H. Lamberton, pastor of the Methodist Protestant church, officiated. The bride and groom were accompanied by the bride's father and brother, and the groom's father and brother. The bride wore a smartly tailored traveling suit of sage chiffon, broad cloth and a small purple velvet hat with feather trimming. Previous to the ceremony Miss Edith Morton played Mendelssohn's wedding march and during the service she played Schubert's Serenade. A daintily appointed three-course wedding breakfast was served from small tables which were centered with bud vases, each holding a white rose. The place cards were adorned with lilies and roses. The decorations were tastefully attractive. The library was in yellow and white, the ceremony being performed before a banking of turp, hydrangeas, golden glow and other fall flowers. A color scheme of pink and white was most effectively carried out in the diningroom. French baskets of white roses, gladioli, asters and rubrum lilies, caught with large bows of white tulle, and tall vases of similar flowers were artistically arranged in the diningroom, library and reception hall. SCOTSDALE AND EVERSON HONOR BOYS OF TENTH soldiers together and they marched to the bandstand where James Keegan bade the boys a heartfelt goodbye and God-speed on behalf of the people of Scottdale, Everson and vicinity.

Afterward the boys proceeded to the Tyrone club at Everson where they were entertained. Lunch was served.

At the ball solos were sung by Miss Florine Copley, John Collins, Corporal Meade Tannehill and Privates Danny Kelly and Coxy Freeberg.

The band was entertained by the Scottdale Elks in a most pleasing manner. James Keegan and E. P. Laughtrey were responsible for the celebration.

The supply company was in charge of Captain Gerald S. Bryce and First Sergeant Edward Byrne, an Everson boy.

This and the presence of other Everson boys in this company gave especial prominence to this company.

Boys' Water Meet.

In the final swimming meet at the Y. M. C. A., some who have learned to swim since school stopped were among those taking part and although no winners nevertheless showed that they are going to make the contests much closer as the months go by. In the 40-foot dash, George Miner surprised his opponent, Lawrence Nelson and won by a good stroke. However, Nelson came right back in the 80-foot dash and took first by a full stroke and a half thus evening up matters. In the dive for form, with the exception of the two the approach in preparation for the dive was poor. Too little attention had been paid to this part of a difficult dive. James Hardy took this event by a margin of three points while Albert Carnivano, Torrence Freeman and Shay Smeltzer all tied and failed in two attempts to break the tie. In the running dive Smeltzer won without trouble, Ed Palmer and Vernon Webb coming second and third respectively. The dive for distance showed a sad lack of practice, the longest dive by Lawrence Nelson being only 35 feet. Miner was the only other to approach this mark by two feet. Torrence Freeman getting to the 33 foot mark at second trial. The next monthly exhibition will be held the latter part of September in conjunction with the grammar school boys' reception.

ATLANTIC LIGHT

THE motor-oil "problem" is no problem at all, once you get this simple, primary fact pasted squarely in your hat, to wit:

No matter what car you drive, or when, or where, or how, there is one of the Big Four that is exactly right for that car under certain conditions.

Here's a group of four motor oils, refined and recommended by the oldest and largest manufacturer of lubricating oils in the world. They have proved-up in years of actual road-use.

Under certain conditions, Atlantic Light may be the one oil you should use; under other circumstances, Atlantic Heavy; and so on. Atlantic Polarine is the famous year-round oil that flows freely at all temperatures.

Ask your garageman which Atlantic Motor Oil your car should get. He will put you straight on this lubrication thing. Ask him for your free copy of the "Why" booklet, or write us.

"THE IRON RING"—A five part World production, featuring Gerda Holmes, Edward Langford and Arthur Ashley, is being presented today. Alice Hauette, a young business man is anxious to become rich, and his wife thinks that his devotion to business justifies her in seeking amusement in the society of other men. A married woman next door, who is in the habit of going out without her husband, introduces her to a wealthy young chap of good appearance but elastic morals. The usual thing happens. Boss consents to attend a birthday party at his home and finds himself as the only guest. The timely arrival of his husband prevents the affair from having a most unpleasant ending, and Alice and Boss come to the right kind of an understanding. Tomorrow, Wilfred Lucas and Edda Millar will be seen in "The Food Gamblers," a new Triangle play of unusual interest. The production is probably the most timely screen play of the moment, and is said to be alive with dramatic action. Miss Millar portrays the role of a young newspaper woman, who exposes a ring of prominent men engaged in "food gambling." Wilfred Lucas has the role of Henry Havens, food commissioner.

THE SOISSON.

Though coming highly recommended by booking office and manager, the Boston Society Girls failed to come up to the Soisson's standard and was closed after the show last night. Mrs. Robbins, manager of the house, left for Pittsburgh today to book a show for the remainder of the week that the can personally guarantee as the kind Soisson patrons will enjoy and feel is worth the admission they pay. The Boston Society Girls came up to none of their promises, Mrs. Robbins states, and could not hope to play a week's engagement at the Soisson, although photographs of the company and advance notices indicated a company of unusual class.

"I hope patrons will understand that shows of this character will never be presented at the Soisson," Mrs. Robbins stated last night. "I was as keenly disappointed as they were with the character of the show and I will put forth every effort to secure such good attractions in the future that this one will be forgotten and the house suffer no loss of prestige."

ORPHEUM THEATRE.

"THE WOMAN IN WHITE"—A five reel Gold Reel drama will be the feature attraction today. Also "Suspended Sentences," a good comedy. Tomorrow, William Fox presents Jane and Katherine Lee in "Two Little Imps." As "Two Little Imps," left in the care of their Uncle Billy at a hotel, they help Billy in his wooing, they aid in reforming Billy's sweet heart's brother Bob, and finally take part in a battle that lands two burglars in the hands of the police, after the crooks have, as Bob's pals, attempted to rob his father's apartment. They do all this in their own inimitable way. The picture is something new, something to be expected from the Fox studios, and something that should not be missed.

PETEY DINK—Ain't That Just Like a Man?

SELLS-FLOTO BOSS ANIMAL MAN AND TIGER AND HIS PUPPY PETS

CIRCUS EXPENSES

Five Thousand a Day to Keep Sells-Floto Going.

What does a circus cost?

Well, the announcement of the Sells-Floto circus, which is coming here Friday, August 31, displays very plainly that it costs the price of one general admission ticket. But that's for you to see it. It's what the circus costs itself that counts.

For instance, perhaps you don't know that it takes nearly $5,000 a day to keep the Sells-Floto circus alive and going. And when you figure it out, that's a good deal of money. However, here are some of the figures:

Salaries, for instance, range from $30 to $500 a week. "ZORA," the woman who trains lions with a buggy whip, gets enough salary in a week to keep the average working man six months. And besides salaries, there are other expenses and many of them. It costs a quarter of a million dollars to outfit a menagerie like that of the Sells-Floto circus. Changes are being made constantly, and whenever an animal dies or is killed in an accident, it means the loss of from $200 to $5,000. The railroad equipment of the show cost more than $200,000, while the horses and their decorations cost as much more.

Then there is the cost of feeding. The animals themselves eat four or five tons of hay a day, 200 bushels of oats, 150 bushels of corn, one and one-half carloads of beef for the carnivorous animals and 700 pounds of vegetables for the others. Five tons of straw are needed for bedding.

For the performers themselves are needed 200 pounds of beef, 150 pounds of mutton, 100 pounds of pork, 800 loaves of bread, 25 cases of eggs, 1,000 pounds of butter, 25 bushels of apples and other incidental items.

So, you see, it costs a good many dollars to bring a circus to your city. And when the Sells-Floto circus comes here, it will bring all the features which make it a $5,000-a-day circus.

COAL SHIPMENTS FALLING BACK

The Northwest May Not Be Able to Secure Even Its Minimum Tonnage Requirements.

The Northwest coal shipments have been steadily falling back, says a correspondent of the American Coal Journal. The conference between coal shippers and government officials, and finally representatives from the Northwest, have resulted in fixing what must be a definite minimum movement of coal by rail and lake to the Northwest, but it also has resulted in establishing, almost to a certainty, that such a minimum is beyond a maximum possibility. Hence, alarm is shown in Washington over the slow shipments and steadily declining production not only in Pittsburg fields, but in Illinois, Kentucky, Alabama and Kansas, through labor troubles.

Prices asked for coal are growing of less and less importance and the issue is "coal without regard to price." It is becoming recognized that the coal production is going to fall far below the needs of the country this fall and winter, no matter what is done, and the extent of the shortage will be measured by the ability the government shows in improving coal supply and in stopping labor agitators and aliens from tying up mines and causing confusion among the people and industries.

The production of coal is the mid-west field that is within reach for contracts is not large, even after prices are fixed. New operations which have been opening up this summer have made no impression on the market for they have been opened at the expense of other and older workings that had to supply the miners.

The Committee on Coal Production has found that coal has been moving to the Northwest at the rate of 940,000 tons a week, that 10,000,000 tons still remain to be delivered, and that to move that amount at least 200,000 more tons must be hauled each week.

An addition of 4,000,000 tons to the original 26,000,000 demanded as the Northwest's need for the winter will not simplify the problem of getting the supply forward before winter sets in.

A Word to the Wise.

There is no more unwise procedure if you have not a perfectly proportioned figure of average height than to select a new hat while seated before a mirror. Most of the mirrors in military salons are placed above tables, and one sits comfortably while the beguiling saleswoman places confection and creation upon one's head. Nothing can do more harm to a silhouette than the wrong sort of hat, and it is a wise woman who tries on hats before a full length mirror. She is not the woman who walks abroad in too wide brimmed hats that make her look dumpty or tall crowned little turbans that make her head absurdly out of proportion with the rest of her figure.

WHAT THE SECRETARY OF WAR SAYS:

"The War Department approves of their enterprise (that of those who take part in raising the 'Our Boys in France Tobacco Fund') and thanks them in behalf of every honest soldier and sailor who will be cheered not merely by the kindly gifts themselves, but still more by the spirit of cordial and homely sympathy which inspires them."
NEWTON D. BAKER,
Secretary of War.

"EMPTY!"

"Gun Smoke Everywhere—
But not a whiff of TOBACCO SMOKE to cheer a fellow up!"

THE English "Tommies" have their pipes kept filled by the folks at home. The French "Poilus" never want for a smoke—their friends are "on the job." The "Anzacs" have all the tobacco they can use sent them by their loved ones.

And now the time has come for Americans to send little packages of happiness to our "Samurais" in the trenches and our "Jackies" with the fleet. These lads are defending our lives and fortunes. We must show them our appreciation.

Besides facing the foe, our boys must experience homesickness, loneliness, dreary hours in the trenches, uncomfortable days in torpedo-boat destroyers. Tobacco cheers them; home and friends loom up in the fragrant puffs. Help us to give the boys at the front the "smokes" they crave and need. Even if you object to tobacco personally, think of those whom it comforts and let your contribution come without delay!

25c Keeps a Fighting Man Happy For a Week—$1 Sends a Month's Supply of Tobacco—ACT!

Each quarter buys a package of tobacco and cigarettes worth 45 cents, enough to make one of your defenders happy for a week. One dollar makes him and his trench mates glad for a month. Those who can afford it should adopt a soldier and keep him supplied with tobacco for the duration of the war. One dollar a month does it. Small and large contributions solicited.

A War Souvenir For You—A feature of this fund is that in each package is enclosed a post card addressed to the donor.

This Is a Volunteer Movement

The space for this advertisement is given free. The services of those who manage the fund are donated. Every cent collected goes into the purchase of tobacco comfort for our soldiers and sailors. Do your part!

Here is a sample of the letters of appreciation that come back to Canada and England from the lads who have been comforted. Our "Fund" will receive similar letters.

"CONTRABAND"

A Romance of the North Atlantic
by RANDALL PARRISH

AUTHOR OF "THE LADY OF THE NORTH" "MAID OF THE FOREST," ETC.

"No; only Red, and a sailor named Dugan. White is knocked out, and McCann has gone aboard the cruiser. He has forged papers with him. Let me go; I can fight my way through with this gun. Those devils will either make way or get hurt."

She stepped aside, and with no other thought but the necessity for action, I turned the key in the lock and flung the door open. The main deck was deserted; to my surprise, all three of the men had disappeared. With revolver gripped in one hand, I stepped forward, searching with suspicious eyes every dark corner, dimly conscious that the girl followed.

I attained the foot of the stairs, even advanced a step upward, before my progress was arrested. Suddenly the companion door was flung open and a mob of men confronted me, surging in through the narrow space from the deck. I drew instantly back, stunned by sight of McCann in their lead, realizing instantly that our effort to attain the open was already too late.

"There he is!" he cried eagerly. "Get him, you men. Live him now; there's no danger; if he hits that gun, he's a dead man."

I was staring straight into the black muzzle leveled at my head, but before I could move, or even determine what was best to be done, Vera stood between me and the mob on the stairs.

"Go back! back to my stateroom; he'll never shoot me. Please, please go back."

I was hot-headed enough to have fought them all, but to attempt resistance then would have endangered her life. I retained sense sufficient to know this, and that only force would cast her aside. I heard McCann mutter an oath, and Red roar out some order, punctuated with profanity, yet did not truly comprehend what efforts were being made to block our retreat.

Before a hand could grasp either of us, we were within the shelter of the stateroom, and the girl had closed and locked the door. Flats pounded on the wood in impotent rage, and I heard voices urging others to bring implements with which to batter their way in.

"I shouted, 'Call off your men!' I have six bullets here; and there'll be six of you dead if you break in this door."

There was silence; then a mutter of voices—one angry with threat, others seemingly urging compromise. Whatever the argument, the advocates of peace seemed in the majority, for out of the hubbub McCann spoke loud enough to be plainly heard.

"There is no use of your threats, Hollier," he said, rapping on the door, "we have weapons as well as you, and you cannot fight alone against the whole ship's crew. The best thing for you to do now is to listen to reason."

"What has become of the French cruiser?"

He laughed, and I could hear Liverpool join in rather noisily.

"Five miles to leeward, and going strong. She'll be out of sight in two hours. There's no hope for you there, my man."

"You showed forged papers?"

"Aye; that was easy enough; you never supposed I was such a fool as to overlook that, did you? We are from St. Johns to Liverpool, with a miscellaneous cargo. The fellow allowed my yarn as though it was sugar candy. And the best of it is, that is the only war vessel patrolling these waters; we have a chance."

"Not without me," I answered calmly, after a pause in which my mind gripped the situation. "The telltale compass shows you are three points off your course now. I'll talk with you, McCann, but if I continue to navigate this ship it will be at my own terms, and you'll either give me what I ask, or we'll fight it out here and now."

"What are your terms?"

I took time to think, determined to demand every concession I dared ask, assured that I held the winning hand. "Well," I said finally, "this coast to the west of us is no joke at any season of the year, and there are sea currents along here to fool any seaman. You can fake the chances if you want to, but it is my belief you fools will have this ship on the rocks within twenty-four hours, if you trust in blind reckoning."

"D— it," sung out Liverpool hoarsely, "we don't need no sermon on the dangers of the deep. Show the guff, an' tell us what you want."

"I will," I snapped back. "The freedom of the ship for both myself and Miss Carrington. Our terms are to be served privately, and the lady is not to be addressed by any one of you."

"My Gawd," exclaimed a muffled voice, "you don't want much! Who are you, the czar of Russia?"

"I am the rightful captain of this ship," I returned stiffly, "and the only man on board capable of navigating her. You can accept my terms, or leave them; and those are not all, McCann, I am talking to you, not that sea scum."

"All right; go ahead. What else?"

"I am to retain this revolver for protection, and the key to my stateroom; Miss Carrington is also to retain her key. When you men desert ship, which I know you plan to do, the Indian Chief is to be left in seaworthy condition. That's all."

"Enough, I should think. You must consider your services indispensable. However, I accept the terms, providing you agree to do what we ask in return."

"That I navigate the ship to within fifty miles of St. Johns; notify you when we reach that point, and give you correct sailing directions."

"That is what we want."

"Good; I accept. Take your men out of the cabin."

I stood motionless, still gripping the revolver in one hand, listening to catch every sound the other side of the closed door. There was a muttered discussion, the words mostly inaudible, although I heard enough to convince me that McCann was urging acceptance of my conditions on the ground that it would be impossible for me, alone, and under surveillance, to add to their danger. Some words were added in so low a tone as to fall to reach my ear, but whatever they were, they evoked a laugh, and seemed to restore the dissatisfied to better humor.

Liverpool took sides with McCann in the dispute, and the two united must have prevailed, for the men finally dispersed, and we could hear their heavy sea boots tramping up the stairs.

Relieved of the strain, I turned to meet the questioning eyes of the girl. "That—that was better than fighting—wasn't it?" she asked almost anxiously.

"Yes, I lost my head for the moment, and could only think of reaching deck, and shouting an alarm to the cruiser."

"It was too late for that."

"Yes; we know it was now, and probably I never would have reached there alive. I am very thankful to you."

"To me?" Her lips smiled, although her eyes remained grave. "Why, I merely opened a door—besides, even that act was apparently selfish."

"I cannot conceive how."

"You do not? Yet surely you can realize what it would mean to me to be left alone on board with—well, Fergus McCann. I do so despise the creature that I shrink from even looking into his eyes. It—it was to avoid meeting him again that I locked the door."

"He talked with you, then?"

"Yes, at the table. We were alone for a moment, and it was his manner which frightened me rather than any words said. I left the table without speaking. He—he followed me, however, and tried my stateroom door."

"Saying nothing?"

"No; it was locked, and—and he laughed and went away."

"I suspect the man is almost as much afraid of you as you are of him," I said quietly, "and is puzzled what to do with you."

"Afraid of me—why?"

"Well, if you were not aboard, his problem would be a much easier one to solve. The lives of none of the rest of us would weigh much in the calculation."

"And you think my life does?"

"Undoubtedly. McCann is a villain by nature; he was born with criminal instincts, which have no wise been changed by the possession of wealth. But he is fully awake to the peril of his position. The fellow is a coward back of all his bluff, and I do not think his criminal instincts are bloodthirsty. But he has drifted into a desperate situation, from which he must extricate himself at any cost."

"You mean—oh, not that?"

"I mean there is but one sure solution—dead men tell no tales."

CHAPTER XXI.

A Plan to Save Ourselves. She stood with hands clasped, and panted lips, her eyes wide open with unfeigned horror, for the moment unable to utter a word.

"You—you actually think that, Mr. Hollier? You mean he would be willing to—murder all on board to protect himself?"

"If assured such an act would bring safety, I do not believe he would hesitate at even that crime. To be perfectly plain, Miss Vera, it is my judgment that your presence on board presents the only problem unsolved."

"My presence? Why, he has no cause to fear me. No one knows where I am. If I never appeared alive again, not a soul could ever account for my disappearance."

"True, and probably McCann is fully aware of these conditions. But he wishes you alive, not dead. That is what makes the problem."

She crossed the narrow space of deck, and grasped my coat in her fingers.

"Oh! this is too terrible! He—he cannot imagine it possible!"

"And why not?" I interrupted. "He is all-powerful on board. He judges the virtue of others by his own standard. He dreams that you might even make that bargain to preserve life."

"That I would marry him?"

"Marriage would seal your lips; would win him safety, and also your subjugation to him. It is a stake worth playing for, surely."

"And the others? What would be the fate of you and the others if I make that hateful bargain?"

"To do what I will be if you refuse," I said soberly, and my hand closed on hers. "McCann has no intention that we shall ever put foot on shore. He would be a fool to permit such a thing."

"You think it all planned out?"

"In detail; McCann, Liverpool and White know exactly what they intend doing. Their questioning of me, and their scrutiny of the chart, convinces me of this. I even believe now I could name the other men of the crew who will be in their boat, when they abandon ship—Dugan, Dubois, Sachs and the negro, Watson, with perhaps two others I am not so sure of. Why, Miss Vera, you heard what I was compelled to assent to a moment ago. I am to pilot the Indian Chief to within fifty miles of the harbor of St. Johns, timing our arrival at that point to some hour of the night. I am to give McCann notice of our arrival there, and furnish him with exact sailing directions to complete the course. This means that the crew expect to abandon the ship there, and take to the boats. There are enough remaining in good condition—and just enough to carry them all, but the Indian Chief will be left with none to rescue those of us who are left on board in case of accident to the vessel."

"And you anticipate accident?"

"I believe the ship will be deserted in an unseaworthy condition—either with her bottom pierced, or her sea-cocks open; and that those of us left aboard will be so confused as to be practically helpless to save the vessel from going down."

"And the men in the boats will get ashore, scatter and never be heard from again. No one will ever learn what became of the Indian Chief, or that we were aboard?"

"The French cruiser will report having spoken us at sea. That will be the last word. The truth will never be made clear. Our fate will be another mystery, never explained."

"Is it of the crew might talk later in 'honor'?"

"There is always that danger, and McCann is frightened enough to guard against it as far as possible. The boats will easily become separated in the darkness. If the others are ever picked up, it will be accidentally by some ship at sea—and there are almost no ships in this ocean. There are few flaws in the plan, as I have figured out."

She did not answer, her eyes on my face, her expression exhibiting the horror she felt at this vivid picture

"I could not—do not ask that of me."

which I had drawn. Then she slowly, gently withdrew her hand from my grasp, sinking into a chair, her head bent forward.

"You—you really believe they actually plan to do all that?" she asked at last. "And what—what about me?"

You suggested that—that marriage might save me from this fate. Do you think so ill of me as to imagine I would ever consent to such a bargain?"

"What I may imagine has nothing to do with the case, Miss Vera. My thought, and that of Fergus McCann, is not liable to be the same on any subject. The only hope he can have of ever winning you is through threat. He possesses power and can assuage his deadly peril. It is my belief that he contemplates doing so."

"That he will offer me choice of marriage with him, or death?"

"Yes; it will not be put in just so brutal a form, for the fellow has a certain polish over his villainy, but it will mean that."

"Loan me the revolver."

"For what purpose?"

"To kill the brute, if ever he dares such a proposal. Mr. Hollier, I would die before I would ever permit his touch! Marry him to save my life! Why, I am so ashamed I cannot look you in the face; cannot even find words to express my detestation of such a suggestion."

I stepped forward, and my hand gently rested on the bowed shoulder.

"My dear girl," I said earnestly, "look at me, and believe my words. Lift your eyes; I want you to read the truth in my heart. It is not your life alone; it is mine also, and the lives of nearly all the others aboard, which are at stake. For the sake of us all I am going to ask of you a sacrifice."

"There had been a mist of tears in the uplifted eyes, but as I passed this hand vanished."

"A sacrifice?" she stammered. "That I marry that man?"

"God forbid! No; but that you encourage him to think it possible."

"Oh, I could not—I could not! Do not ask that of me."

"But listen," I urged eagerly, forgetful of all else in the earnestness of my plea. "Vera, listen before you make decision. The only possible hope lies in the freedom of one of us aboard. I can so juggle figures as to keep the ship safely at sea for another day and night, but no longer."

HOME-READING COURSE FOR CITIZEN-SOLDIERS.

(Issued by the War Department and all rights to reprint reserved.)

A Course of Thirty Daily Lessons Prepared for the Men Selected for Service in the National Army as a Practical Help in Getting Rightly Started in the Business of Soldiering, and Introductory to the Instruction That Will Be Given in the Training Campments.

LESSON NO. 14.

The Team Leaders.

Most of the men in the Army are private soldiers. Their work is of the greatest importance and deserves all the respect and praise which it receives. A great many men in the National Army, however, will be ambitious to rise to higher ranks. They will find plenty of encouragement and of opportunities for promotion. If you are one of these men, don't allow yourself to forget the fact that you can win promotion only by proving your fitness in each duty entrusted to you. It is a rare case when a man is "jumped" several ranks ahead. As a rule, he climbs from one rank to the next higher rank after having demonstrated in each position his intelligence, honor, and reliability.

Even as a private, you may win advancement to the grade known as first-class private. About one-fourth of the privates in each company may be given the rating "first-class," which means in substance that they are regarded as skilled and trustworthy soldiers.

Non-Commissioned Officers. From the first-class privates, are usually chosen the corporals. These are the squad leaders. They are appointed by the commanding officer of the regiment on the recommendation of the commanding officer of the company. In addition to the regularly appointed corporals each company may have one lance corporal. This is a temporary appointment made by the company commander for the purpose of testing the ability of some private whom he is thinking of recommending for permanent appointment. In case the lance corporal does not make a good showing, or for any other reason, he may be returned to the ranks when the commander of the company sees fit.

Next above the corporal in rank comes the sergeant. There are usually 9 to 11 sergeants in a company. Unless a sergeant has some other duty assigned to him, he is normally the leader of a platoon. There are, however, many special duties constantly assigned to sergeants. The first sergeant (in Army slang, the "top sergeant") for example, keeps certain company records, forms the company in ranks, transmits orders from the company commander, and performs many other important tasks. The supply sergeant sees to bringing up supplies of all kinds to the company. The mess sergeant looks after food. The stable sergeant is responsible for the proper care of horses and mules. The color sergeant carries the national or regimental colors. There are many other grades within the rank of sergeant which cannot be described here. You will gradually become familiar with them during your army experience.

Commissioned Officers. Sergeants and corporals are known as non-commissioned officers, because they are appointed by their regimental commanding officer. Officers of higher ranks are known as commissioned, since they hold their rank by virtue of a commission issued to them under authority of the President of the United States. The commissioned officer is thus on quite a different footing from the "non-com" (non-commissioned officer). He obtains his rank and authority from a higher source. He is treated with respect which is of a different character from that extended to a non-commissioned officer. This is one of the fundamental things in Army organization.

Lowest in rank among the commissioned officers is the second lieutenant. Above him comes the first lieutenant and above him the captain. These are the three "company officers." The captain is ordinarily the commanding officer of a company, while the lieutenants might be described as assistant captains. In the absence or disability of the captain, however, the first lieutenant takes his place and has full command, and in the absence or disability of both the second lieutenant takes the command.

Next above the captain is the major, whose proper command is a battalion. A step higher is the lieutenant colonel and above him the colonel, he commanding officer of a regiment. The lieutenant colonel ordinarily assists the colonel and in his absence takes the command. In case both the lieutenant colonel and the colonel are disabled or absent, the senior major takes the command. Above the colonel is the brigadier general, whose proper command is a brigade. Above the brigadier general is the major general, the highest rank at present held by any officer of the American Army.

One general, however, serves as Chief of Staff of the Army. As such he supervises all troops and departments of the military service. He in turn reports to the Secretary of War. The Secretary of War in his turn acts under the general direction of the President of the United States, who is the Commander in Chief.

The chain of authority reaches in an unbroken line all the way from the President to the newest recruit. If the President chooses to give an order which in any way affects the recruit, it passes through the Secretary of War, Chief of Staff, major general, brigadier general, colonel, major, captain, sergeant, and possibly corporal until the recruit is reached and the order obeyed.

Ordinarily only the most general instructions are issued by the higher officers. The manner in which these instructions shall be carried out is left to the judgment of officers in closer contact with the troops and with a more intimate knowledge of the conditions under which they are working.

SOISSON THEATRE

A Good One is Coming Tonight

THE BOSTON SOCIETY GIRLS Company gave such a poor performance that the management cancelled it after last night's performance. Every assurance had been given by booking office and the company manager that it was an excellent company. It did not live up to a single promise and could not hope to play a week's engagement at a house like The Soisson.

Mrs. Robbins feels that she owes a personal apology to her patrons for presenting such a show ever for one day. She left this morning for Pittsburgh to book up a program for the remainder of the week which she can absolutely guarantee as above par.

Remember, The Boston Society Girls have gone, and a regular show is coming.
